Saruk

Saruk is in the Ferahan area. It is known for its excellent wool, and its well achieved productions of a high level.

Around the end of the 19th century the pressure put on the weavers by western dealers did not have a positive influence on the production. One was not so much inclined to discover new patterns and meeting the demand of the market played an important part. Nonetheless, one still can say that the area still uses excellent materials and in harder times comes back to some more imaginative patterns.
